How to answer interview questions the right way

Covered in this lecture:

Tips on answering questions at your product management interview

► Product management positions are based on making good decisions based on data

► In all your answers, you have to mention how you came to that conclusion, why, and what the alternatives are

► Before giving an answer, you have to ask more details about the question, until you have enough data to base your conclusion on

● As a PM, there is never a single correct answer to a question

● You have to synthesize the information and come up with a good approach and be clear about why this is the best option
